Dear Bro. Phelps,

A Mr. Abbott, agent for selling anti-slavery books for the Mass. A.S. Society was at my room today, and during our interview he remarked that Mrs. Foster (I think George Foster of Andover) was now revealing in a course of letters to the Mass. Board something about the "plot" of the new society: intimating that it was something to which he was privy by the confidence reposed in him by the friends of the new society at their incipient movements; and further intimating that it would disclose some concealed sectarian features not yet made publick.

It occured to me that the posibility that this announcement was something with which I was not, but ought to be apprised and prepared was a sufficient reason for a hasty line.

Yours sincerely

Sanford Leach

Rev. A.A. Phelps.
